The Aftermath of Action

(By Henry Chas. Suter)

R.I.P.

They were quietly and earnestly engaged in clearing the old battle front and preparing proper graveyards for the dead. Many of the bodies they recovered belonged to the great silent army of the unknown, their secret of identity, being buried in churned-up ground and pitted shell-holes. There was a peculiar pathos in the search over the stricken plain for their buried comrades, and as they discovered them one by one the canvas covered remains were laid reverently side by side to await burial in the official graveyard. Every item of identity was gathered together, forming a wealth of information to those who had only received a paltry note reporting "missing." Of course these missives sent by the war office will always be cherished, but how vague they are—how vague so they gather together the disc, tied to the vagrant man's body, its lettering as clear as when cut and complete as when first donned. On most of the recovered bodies there was the inevitable wrist watch given by comrades in civil life or friends or relatives when the warrior joined up. On some they found in the breast pocket a carefully written pencilled note book, as diary of the events of the struggle. Alas, somewhat written so much which told of tragic secrets which, though buried with the dead, shall now be resurrected even in the thoughts and lives of others. We may forget many callings of news scraps from the press about the crisis and we may forget much of its well written histories that are not pressed upon us at present, but, oh, those diaries—they will not let us forget. And some of them were short; very short; for, alas, some of them were cut off so soon. Upon a few they found the pistol carefully preserved in its case and some of them had not been fired, thus telling how short the career of the officer had been and how soon the bullet had found its billet. So the tokens were all collected with any other treasures the searchers found, and these were packed and prepared for return to relatives. Then the bodies were prepared for burial and placed in the special graveyard across facing east, according to the old Christian tradition, and it seems to denote, as far as these fallen are concerned, resurrection. Yes! it is indeed resurrection, for though they may be dead, yet they still shall speak in such a way as to warm many an aching heart.

But there is resurrection in another sense and of a more intense degree. For among those who make search for missing men are some very old soldiers who have become adoptive fathers by noting significant features of the ground, and their labor is rewarded in such a way as to warm many an aching heart. This is the story I want to tell, and the incident that speaks resurrection indeed. Among the searchers one day was a father and son who had been told off by the D.G.R.E. for re-employment in the same position as the other battalion began their work with a rest that spoke of a determination to do a last bit for the boys. Doggedly with rough reverence they worked in the last labour of love. It was just a matter of time when a man's body was afterwards reported "missing," when as that father was looking for his son, he found the body of his other son. So the missing had been found, the fallen was lifted, the dead—resurrected, for now that father and son knew the other had done his duty, and as they stood by the cross facing east, it spoke them of a sunrise not sun setting, of life not death, of hope not disaster, of joy not sorrow, and the resurrection had come to them both in a deep reality in the finding of their relative. So we are all still learning that these outstanding paradoxes are true: that to find we must lose, to serve we must suffer, to live we must be able. Moreover, in all this we are beginning to realise resurrection power while others rest in peace.

NINE KILLED IN RIOTING IN BELFAST

Belfast, July 23.—Brother Michael Morgan, a redemptorist, was shot dead tonight in Clonard monastery, Falls Road, during the course of a serious engagement between rioters and troops. Two others were killed, William Downey and William Goldenroy. The rioter is held that Brother Morgan was the victim of stray bullets. Late this evening there were renewed outbreaks of rioting. The attacks against the military were of a formidable character, and many were injured by stones and other missiles.

The rioters grew increasingly menacing, and after a warning, the troops fired, with the result that three persons were killed and fully a dozen wounded, some of them seriously. James Conn was shot through the lungs and was operated upon immediately at the hospital. There was serious rioting at Ballybride, the home of Col. Smythe, who was assassinated a few days ago. The offices of a news agency were set afire, petrol being obtained for this purpose from passing automobiles, and destroyed. A majority of the employees of the Ballybride factories today demanded the expulsion of the Sinn Féin workers from the management in each case being obliged to close down the works.

NINE KILLED IN RIOTING. Up to about eleven o'clock tonight nine persons had been killed in the rioting and scores wounded. The firing was renewed at 10.30 in the neighborhood of Clonard monastery. Rioters in the evening a spirit dealer in the Ballymacarrett district, believing that a mob was about to attack his premises, fired a number of shots and wounded four civilians. He was seized and beaten and eventually sent to the hospital. Albert MacAuley was shot dead by soldiers in Cromack square.

The C.P.R. and its Veterans

With a total of 18,330 returned soldiers given employment up to June 30th, the C.P.R. has achieved a record which its officials consider the best record in the history of the Company. When any C.P.R. man is called for voluntary service overseas, he carries with him not only credit for six months pay, but also the promise of a position awaiting his return, or for now that the war is over, the value to the one he leaves behind for the C.P.R. scale of pay was raised during the war to correspond with the increased cost of living, and re-employment in the same position in most cases meant re-employment at a higher wage or salary. Moreover, not only was the return to the C.P.R. a wide theme, but for all new employees preference has been given to returned men in general—so that whereas the Company's moral obligation covered only the seven thousand who applied for re-employment, its actual record has been the employment of over eighteen thousand ex-servicemen—more than twenty per cent. of the total payroll. The actual figures up to June 30th, 1920, are as follows:—

Total reported as joining the Army	11,602
Dead	1,200
Wounded	2,068
Re-employed in the service	7,008
Other soldiers given employment	11,322
Total soldiers given employment	18,330

Army service naturally upset the old order of life, and a percentage of those who might have found back to railway service in Canada drifted elsewhere. Of the various types of employees, the tradesmen and craftsmen appear to have remained most true to their old love, as the following figures show:—

Trains and Enginesmen	Balanced	Killed or Died on Active Service	Re-employed
2,120	201	1,919	1,919
Shopmen	2,737	274	2,463
Clerical	3,077	280	2,797
Miscellaneous	2,590	118	2,472
Maintenance of Way Employees	608	32	576
Total	11,062	1,100	7,008

If the "Veteran" Army of the C.P.R. were ever to parade together, it would make a brave showing of medals and decorations. Of the C.P.R. men re-employed, 370 or over 5% won special distinction of this nature, including two V.G.'s; 2 C.M.G.'s; 17 D.S.O.'s; 3 with bar; D.S.O.'s; 3 D.S.C.'s; 54 M.C.'s; 47 D.C.M.'s; 160 M.M.'s; 13 with bar; M.M.'s; 17 M.S.M.'s; 13 Croix de Guerre, and one Legion of Honour. CHAUTAUQUA.

The Chautauque is the one distinctive original institution which this country possesses. It is the natural growth of an entertainment created by the taste of the people—the town meeting where great men of the day can expound their vigorous philosophies, for the Chautauque is just a town meeting of a new kind. In no other institution is so clearly epitomized the true democracy. In no other gathering do the people of a town so nearly lose the distinction of caste and class and become as one. It is an institution which rejuvenates our democracy—where the millionaire and the laborer may meet on a common ground of interest in the world wide things of life.

Ida M. Tarbell, who was through Western Canada a few months ago, says: "One of the best institutions in this country is the Chautauque summer platform. Certainly in the stress of these times it should be preserved if any institution is to be preserved. It does a variety of things that we have great need should be done now. It brings a fresh element into the social life of the town—a very desirable thing, particularly in the smaller communities. It will give stimulating ideas about the great questions that the country must understand and study. Everything now depends upon the country keeping its mind active and inspiring people to full cooperation. The Chautauque platform will do this in a wonderfully direct way. Every community ought to be willing to sacrifice, if necessary, to keep the Chautauque alive in the community."

Judge Ben Lindsay, of Juvenile Court fame, says: "The Chautauque is this continent's fourth great institution. The other three are the Church, the Home, and the School."

THE NEWS WEEKLY SERMON

By Rev. G. D. Armstrong

And he said, So is the Kingdom of God, as if a man should cast seed into the ground; and should sleep and rise night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, he knoweth not how. For the earth bringeth forth fruit of herself; first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear. But when the fruit is brought forth immediately he putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come.—Mark IV, 26-30.

God hides Himself in the universe and its mysteries are known only to the initiated. Jesus embodied the truth of His teaching in parables and only those who were truly His disciples were able to see life from His viewpoint or to have the mysteries of His teaching made clear to them. The unthinking multitude saw only the husks of His teaching; they did not discover the kernel of truth concealed in it.

This difference between the relation of Jesus to the multitude and to the disciples as shown in this chapter, was not due to any arbitrary selection upon the part of the Master, but to real differences in the lives of the people themselves. The world we live in is the reflex of the world within ourselves. What we are in ourselves; the capacity we bring to the tasks of life; the insight we possess, determine what we shall discover in the world about us. Personal education, the quickening of the powers that are inherent in our nature, is the way by which we live, and the measure of our spiritual development will determine for us the abundance of life.

We are able to understand the unseen things of life by our experience of the material world, and because of this we have reason to believe that Science, whose business it is to observe all the processes of life, has an invaluable contribution to make to religion when in "every sphere of thought, we may be able to discern an ever-present God."

The parable of the sower indicates that in the time of Jesus human nature was very much as it is today. Many were so absorbed in the material things of life that they failed to realize any greater world than that in which they were living. Many had such shallow, superficial characters that they were quickly confused and as quickly their enthusiasm waned. The lure of riches; the passion for pleasure and the worries of life prevented people from enjoying the best in life. But after all there were many who constituted "good soil" in which the word of truth produced an abundant harvest. Jesus did not despair of human nature and dared to believe that the rule of God was real in human affairs. He did not regard spiritual things as the intrusion of something foreign to human life, but as embodied in the very nature of things. He saw the laws of God in constant operation. The Kingdom of God is in the midst of you; not elsewhere nor hereafter but here and now.

This faith of Jesus was not an entirely new thing in human history. Centuries before, the Prophet of the Exile, returning triumphant from the storm which had wrecked the nation, proclaimed the word of faith. "The word of our God endureth forever." "My word shall not return unto me void; but it shall accomplish that which I please and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it."

So Christianity was the awakening of the minds of men to the reality of God's presence in the world. The course of human affairs went on, without divine intervention, because God was already in the process. Prophet eyes could see "the glory going on slowly on the shade" and to the minds of the early Christians a new world appeared. "Old things passed away, and all things became new."

The principle of evolution is clearly set forth in this parable of Jesus. Man has his part to play in sowing the seed and in providing for favorable conditions of growth. We may reasonably infer also that with efficient measures of cultivation, the shallow soil may be deepened and barren earth enriched. But all this is only a measure of co-operation with nature upon man's part. The life-giving power is of God and quite apart from man's knowledge or volition the life processes go on.

It is well that men should come to feel something of the burden of the eternal, but it is not a healthy thing for us to take ourselves too seriously. Back of all our enthusiasms must be the conviction that there is a power in the world making for righteousness. Religion, in whatever form it comes, will save us from unreasoning hopes on one hand and on the other hand from the hopelessness of disappointment and the spirit of pessimism which so frequently settles down upon us. In Christianity truly we have "optimism without frivolity and seriousness without despair."

The conviction of God's sovereignty I desire to notify the public that I have opened the

DANGER FROM NEW DISEASES OF WHEAT

(Experimental Farms Note)
Aside from rust and smut, Canadian wheat crops have been found remarkably free from destructive plant diseases. Recently, however, there have been discovered in the U.S.A. two new diseases, "Flag smut" and "Take all" about the presence of which there has been felt considerable alarm. Now up to the time of writing, Canada has not been invaded by either of these new practices. But growers should be ever on the lookout for these and any other obscure trouble with which their practice has not made them thoroughly familiar.
"Flag smut" so called because the smut occurs on the flags or leaves of wheat, is easily recognized by the long streaks of smutty stripes running along the leaves. The affected plants also show a peculiar tangled and twisted appearance as if the leaves were wound around the stem. Any suspicious plant should be sent to the Division of Botany, Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

"Take all," as the name implies, takes all and is probably the most serious wheat disease known with the exception of rust. In certain countries, indeed, it is the more serious, as is emphatically claimed by the practical grower as well as the scientific observer. The recognition in the field is not difficult. "Take all" is a root disease spreading from below up the stem for about 1 to 2 inches, discolor-ing the stem dark brown. The affected plants may be pulled very easily, their anchorage in the ground is very loose as compared to a sound plant. The affected plants turn yellow and finally die, taking straw and all.
Both diseases are most likely conveyed by infected seed grain, hence it is most important to "nip these diseases in the bud" and report all suspicious cases at once. The use of foreign wheats for seed is cautioned against; particularly wheat from Australia is under suspicion.

ALBERTA WILL REQUIRE FIVE THOUSAND MEN TO HARVEST THE 1920 CROP.

Edmonton, July 22.—That Alberta will require 5,000 men in addition to those already in the province to work in the harvest fields this fall is the statement made by J. W. Mitchell, director of the employment bureau for the province of Alberta.
"We may get a few men from the fruit fields of British Columbia," said Mr. Mitchell, "but the number will be very small, and we will have to depend on the eastern provinces to relieve the employment situation of the west during the harvesting season."

FIVE MILLIONS FOR ROAD WORK TO BE EXPENDED

Owing to Lateness of Season But One Quarter of Grant Can Be Utilized.

Ottawa, July 22.—The federal and provincial governments will spend $5,000,000 this year on improvements to the roads of Canada, the Dominion grants amounting to $2,000,000 and the provinces expending $3,000,000.
The total Dominion grant for road improvement is $20,000,000. The outlay this year is smaller than will be the case in subsequent years. This is the first year in which the grant has been available, and because of the time necessary for preparing plans the season will be well advanced before a large expenditure can be made.

Under the improvement scheme general plans have to be filed by the provinces before the federal grant is available. Every province has now complied with this requirement. Detailed plans for expenditure by the provinces also have to be approved by the Dominion and in several instances this has been already done so that work can go on at once. In the case of the provincial grants the provinces may apply these funds as they see fit, but the federal grant of 40 per cent. of the total cost is intended to be exclusively for main or trunk roads.

CYCLONE SWEEPS PORTIONS OF SASKATCHEWAN

Regina, July 22.—Saskatchewan was assured of a 1920 crop but at a great cost. Yesterday the province received the rain it has been praying for for weeks. It came in cyclone form, swept the province from west to east, carried with it death to at least 25,000,000. The full casualty list and damage toll is far from complete, as, in its course, the storm put many rural telephones out of commission.

TWO WOMEN KILLED
The severest damage from the cyclone was in the southern parts of the province. At Alameda five people have been known to be injured and nine barns and a school house blown to matchwood. The damage is estimated at $100,000 here. So great was the velocity that a threshing outfit was carried 200 yards.

Both east and west of this, terrified the cyclone caused damage. Two women are dead and a four-year-old baby is missing, following a cyclone at Frohisher. Heavy destruction of barns and houses is also reported.
At Kronau, nine miles southeast of Regina, there was a washout and trains were stalled.

HAIL MOWS CROP DOWN
At Yellowgrass the cyclone blew down a house and sent a man 20 feet in the air. Hail schoolhouses was also destroyed. Hail at Edgley, Edenwald and Avonhurst, over an area of 25 miles, cut the grain down as though by a mower, and eight hours after the storm the ground was as white from hail as after a winter storm.

MILLION NOW ASSURED FOR WESTERN CANADA COLONIZATION ASSOC'N

Winnipeg, July 23.—That a million dollars has now been assured for the Western Canada Colonization Association, is the statement made by Mayor M. A. Brown, of Medicine Hat, who is in Winnipeg, on route west from Eastern Canada. Mayor Brown was accompanied by Brig. H. F. Mc-Donald on his trip to the east.
Within the past thirty days an additional quarter of a million dollars has been secured, said he, and the objective of one and a half million for the purpose of the association is now well in sight.

The same vigorous effort will be made in the next three months as has been made in the past three to raise the necessary funds, said Mr. Brown, and by October 31, our committee should be entirely successful.

This baby food for young animals is partially pre-digested, and can be fed to the youngest animals with perfect safety. It WILL NOT cause stomach or bowel trouble, which are serious ailments in young animals. Royal Purple is a sure provenant for securing.

Calves Gain Rapidly Without Milk
When the calves are 3 or 4 days old they can be fed Royal Purple Calf Meal and raised just as well without one drop of milk. What prominent breeders remark:
Mr. Geo. W. Collins, Plainfield, Ont., writes:
"I have used your Royal Purple Calf Meal, and I think you have the best on the market, as people who have bought it give it great praise. Some have taken their calves off sweet milk, and feed them nothing but your Calf Meal and water, and say they are doing as well as if they did on the whole milk."
To Whom It May Concern:
This is to certify that I have secured your "Royal Purple" Calf Meal from our distributor, Mr. F. C. Nicholls, of Winnipeg, and can say that this meal is the best I ever tried. I never saw a calf gain more rapidly and thrive better than mine did while using your "Royal Purple" Calf Meal. I can cheerfully recommend it to all our stockmen who wish to raise large, healthy calves.
Note—The above Mr. Grunell keeps a large herd of purebred Holstein cattle, and is an excellent authority on Calf Feeds.
Royal Purple Calf Meal is equally good for young colts, lambs and young pigs. Put up in 25-lb., 50-lb. and 100-lb. bags. Secure it from our dealer in your town.

BOGARDUS, THE WEASEL

By Clayton H. Ernst.
"Mr. Ransey, I want to go where I can do the most good."

Sidney Glehill looked the state warden square in the eyes and did not smile as he answered the question.

The state warden was a medium-sized, middle-aged man with a quick, decisive manner and a tanned face that was evidence that he had not always sat at a desk in the capitol. He returned Sidney's steady, straight look and for a moment said nothing. When he spoke it was with the voice of one who has considered a serious question and has determined to take a chance.

"Ever heard of Jack Bogardus?" "Yes," said Sidney. "I've heard he is making the upper Madawa his headquarters."

"So they say; perhaps he's there, and perhaps he isn't. You can go up and see—if you think you want to tackle a real job first off. A couple of French trappers brought word that they'd seen him two months ago where Black Diamond Stream joins the Madawa near the boundary, been in there?"

"No," said Sidney, "but I can find it."

"You know why we want him," said the warden. "He's been breaking game laws for years, but the real reason is that he shot Johnny Lebeau in a fight last summer at Highland Lake. He doesn't know you're a deputy, and you may get away with the trick. Does it sound too big for you?"

"No," said Sidney, "but I can find it."

"All right!" he said, and slipped the desk with his hand. "Go get him!"

You've had a lot of experience in the woods for a young chap, and you're big and strong; but listen to what I tell you: Carry your gun where you can get at it quick and don't be afraid to shoot if you have to. Bogardus is a weasel—a blackhearted, slippery weasel.

Three years ago, when he was trapping beaver on Teley's river, Steve Whiting went in to get him and never came out. Perhaps Steve got drowned; perhaps he ran into something that came out of a rifle barrel. No one'll ever know. So look sharp, listen sharp, move sharp—and get him."

"So long," said Sidney, and walked out of the building into the cold midwinter afternoon. One of his ambitions had been realized. He had been sworn in as a fish and game warden and deputy sheriff, and the badge that was the emblem of his new trust was pinned on the inside of his coat out of sight but where it could be reached quickly enough if needed. He was the youngest warden in the state, but he appeared to be thoroughly capable of enforcing the law for he was strongly built and he had a fearless, resolute look in his gray eyes.

At noon three days later he found himself looking straight into the muzzle of a rifle that was held unwaveringly within a dozen feet of his eyes. He had been tricked; like a child he had been tricked.

An hour before on his way down Cherry Mountain into the valley of the Madawa he had discovered a snowshoe trail. The marks in the snowy half inch of snow that had fallen during the night were fresh, and it was evident that the trail had been used frequently, for there were many old snowshoe tracks. Sidney had surmised that this was the trail to the cabin of Jack Bogardus. He had intended to make a quick job of it—to get the "drop" on the lawbreaker and start out of the woods immediately with his captive. Holding his rifle ready, he had come softly down the trail, peering ahead, taking every precaution to be unseen and unheard.

Like a thunderclap out of a clear sky a voice with the menace of death in it had sounded behind him almost in his ear. "Drop yer gun!" were the words; and Glehill had obeyed.

Stepping out from behind a tree beside the trail was a man whom the new warden recognized instantly as Jack Bogardus. He had never seen the outlaw before, but there was no mistaking him. Each feature fitted the description—the gray birthmark on the chin, the piercing, black eyes, the short, compact body. Sidney even noticed the three-fingered left hand. He could not imagine how any human being could have detected his stealthy approach; the thought brought him the disquieting conviction that he was in the hands of an almost superhumanly clever woodsman.

He never knew that chance had been in part responsible for his undoing—that Bogardus had thought of an old marten trap and had gone back diagonally from the trail to visit it. It was Sidney's realization that he had given himself away; his stealth had betrayed that he was man hunting.

"Lift yer hands! Now move on! Stop!"

Sidney obeyed the orders, knowing that his life depended on it. He raised his arms over his head, took three steps and halted. Behind him he heard the outlaw pick up the rifle, and he expected to get a bullet in his back.

"March!"

Sidney moved up the trail holding his hands above him and looking straight ahead. After walking a quarter of a mile he came to a clearing on the bank of a frozen stream. Outside the door Bogardus halted and, putting down the extra rifle, made sure that he carried no revolver. When he had satisfied himself on that score, he ordered Glehill to take off his snowshoes, open the door and go in. Bogardus followed close behind and commanded the warden to sit down on the edge of a bunk that was built into a corner of the cabin.

Until this moment the outlaw had said nothing except to give orders, but now as he sat on a bench beside the snowshoe stove and put wood on the fire, he suddenly became voluble. "Hi! Sent a boy to catch me, a young feller. Here, look yer badge!"

Sidney hesitated for an instant and then unrolled his badge and tossed it to his captor.

Bogardus caught it with a laugh and pinned it on his shirt. "See!" he cried. "Here, look yer badge!"

"—sheriff, game warden, fish warden."

"What are you going to do?" asked

MR. GASPARD DUBORD

159 Avenue Plus IX, Montreal.

"For three years, I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and my general health was very low. I consulted a physician and took his medicine and faithfully carried out his instructions; but I did not improve and finally the doctor told me I could not be cured."

At this time, a friend advised me to try "Fruit-a-lives" and I did so. After taking two boxes of "Fruit-a-lives", I was greatly relieved; and gradually this marvelous fruit medicine made me completely well. My digestion and general health are splendid—all of which I owe to "Fruit-a-lives."

Sidney.

Bogardus looked at him and smiled with an evil leer.

"You'll find out plenty quick, Young feller, 'yer never got 'back—ner'!"

A little spasm ran down Sidney's spine, and he felt suddenly sick at heart. The thought of the utter failure he had made sickened him as much as the thought of death. He had angled his first big chance, and it would be his last chance if Bogardus, the weasel, had his way.

"Why didn't you shoot me back there in the trail?" he asked, trying to keep his voice calm.

Bogardus laughed. "You think I'm fool? Spill blood in place where some one may find it? There's better places. One time another feller. He paused and laughed again.

Sidney, waiting for him to finish what he had started to say, suddenly thought of Steve Whiting, the deputy who had never come back.

Slipping the cartridges from Sidney's rifle, the outlaw set the weapon away on a shelf. Never for an instant did his own gun leave his hands; and all the while he kept an eye on the young warden.

guard.

"Hi!" said Bogardus, seeing the evident fear of his victim; and when Sidney was within three feet of the doorway, the outlaw lowered his rifle slightly and took a step backward to let him pass.

In the same instant the warden with a lightning-quick movement buried the pail of water at his captor and flung himself toward the nearest corner of the cabin. He had rightly guessed that Bogardus would shoot. The rifle cracked, but the bullet only tore a hole in the side of Sidney's coat. He gained the corner and dashed for the rear of the cabin. His life depended on his turning the second corner before Bogardus turned the first.

He did it and ran along the back wall, thinking hard. He was playing the old game of tag round the house, and the prize and the forfeit were life and death. His one chance was to do the unexpected. In that old game it was a favorite trick to dash madly round a corner, stop suddenly, turn and retreat your steps. Like a flash it came to Sidney that Bogardus, the wily, would expect him to do that very thing—and that the outlaw himself would pause for a moment at the east side of the cabin and wait for him to appear.

Straining every muscle Glehill ran on round the cabin, turned the third corner, and the fourth was again at the front. Bogardus was not in sight. Sidney's goal was now the cabin door, twenty feet away. Like a panther he leaped for it, but even as he gained the opening he heard his enemy coming round the corner only a yard away. In the same second in which he sprang to the shelter of the doorway he sprang out again upon Bogardus.

The outlaw's rifle exploded so close to the warden's head that the charge burned his cheek, but Bogardus went down with Sidney on top, and they fought it out in a cloud of flying snow. When the fight was over, the outlaw lay unconscious from a lump on the head, and Sidney was bleeding at the nose.

Bogardus, the weasel, found himself bound with his hands behind his back when he regained consciousness.

"We'll have some tea and a bite to eat," said Glehill, "and then we'll move along."

Three days later Sidney Glehill arrived at the Lakeville jail with his prisoner.

Lovely Regions in the Canadian Rockies

Pictureque Windermere B.C.

It is the beauty of the Canadian Rocky Mountains, north of the line between the Dominion and the United States, is not the grandest in the world it is certainly lovely as anywhere, and it is the loveliest of the American continent.

The story of the European Alps is dimmed by the towering snow clad peaks of the Rockies. Travellers on the Canadian Pacific Railway from Calgary, through Banff, Lake Louise, Field and Glacier out to the Pacific Coast view a land in which they feel themselves transferred to an earthly paradise.

The gigantic heights, the snow capped peaks, the rugged boulders, the pines growing in the sand and rock crevices up as far as the snow line are among the most impressive features of the Rocky Mountains. How the builders of the C.P.R. ever were able to excavate their way through this region is one of the wonders of the world.

Visitors whose time is limited should always explore a portion of the Rocky Mountain region and stay at least at one of the most impressive features of the Rocky Mountains. How the builders of the C.P.R. ever were able to excavate their way through this region is one of the wonders of the world.

Banff is situated at an altitude of 4,321 feet in the Canadian National Park. This Park is a natural reservation of 5,732 square miles embracing part of the Bow River valley, numerous small rivers and several towering mountain ranges. Banff National Park is the largest in the world. Banff is named Lake Louise, a high, looks down on Banff Springs Hotel, and the hotel looks down on the Bow River valley. Banff is still a stream in the Park, and the Zoological Garden contains many Canadian wild animals. Banff Museum possesses many valuable objects of curiosity. In the Museum there is a visitors book in which a space is provided for remarks on Banff. Looking over the bow, you are interested enough to take a note of some of the opinions on Banff. Here are a few:

"Oh, would that my tongue could utter the thoughts that arise in me." "Banff is under the sun and shadow to me is just the place to spend a lovely holiday. Let us be happy while we can."

"What more can anyone desire?" "Beyond description."

"I do not go to heaven when I die, I would like to go to Banff next to heaven."

"One may look upon the face of God."

Seaplanes are employed to give visitors to Banff unusual thrills in the year. They are being used in preference to aeroplanes because the latter are not available for landing and take-off stations for them, whereas such facilities are not available for the ordinary machines. The lake at Banff has been secured as the base of operations, and flights over the mountains and to other isolated lakes are projected.

The lake known as Lake Louise is a small sheet of water surrounded by mountains on all sides but one, and on this open side stands the Chateau Lake Louise looking out on the lake and the heights above. The water in Lake Louise at different periods of the day puts on the most wonderful hues of green which baffles description. Some of the mountains at Lake Louise are 8,000 feet high. Benalto Fair Prize List

There was a big crowd at the Benalto Fair on Wednesday, there being about 1200 and 1300 present, with a goodly number of Red Deer visitors. The day was perfect and everything was carried off in excellent shape. Tuesday afternoon was given over to judging and children's sports. Wednesday afternoon, the horse racing and bucking contests were staged. The bucking contest drew a large number of entries, and the visitors were treated to some real sport. The showing of live stock was very creditable and clearly shows the advances that are being made in improving the stock of the district. The poultry exhibit was splendid. The Ladies' department was up to the high standard established last year, and the grains and grasses were good. A picture show in the early part of the evening, followed by a dance, wound up a highly successful fair and the directors are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. The Board this year consisted of: President—S. E. McKee. First Vice-President—J. W. Warwick. Second Vice-President—S. S. Warren. Directors—H. Talson, A. McPherson, I. Hyonson, O. M. Neilson, W. Cowboy Life on a Western Ranch

(1) Guy Weadick, of the T. S. Ranch, Longview, Alberta, Canada.
(2) Miss Flores LaDue, world's champion lady fancy rider, Mr. Weadick's partner.
(3) Broncho Buster on T. S. Ranch.

The romance of life among the cowboys on a Western ranch has been depicted so often in the movies that a number of people who go each year to the Canadian Rockies have said: "Why not spend our own vacation this way? Why not take a change from the big tourist hotels and do the thing in the real wild western style?" "Easiest thing in the world," said Guy Weadick, Stage-Manager for many of the great Stampedes and Frontier Day Celebrations at Calgary and elsewhere, and to make it easier still he secured the "T. S." Ranch in the foothills of the Rockies, near the ranch recently purchased by the Prince of Wales, and in partnership with Miss Flores LaDue, the World's Champion Lady Fancy Rider, he has undertaken to entertain a few selected parties of those who desire to spend their holidays on a real Western Canadian Ranch, where fishing and hunting are plentiful and where the mountain scenery is magnificent beyond words.

The "T. S." Ranch is situated in the Eden Valley, right at the base of Mt. Head, on the trail that leads to Banff, 60 miles to the northwest, through the Stoney Indian reservation. Pack outfits are run from the ranch to the beautiful Kananaskis Lakes. Numerous other worth while pack trips can be made from the ranch through the Canadian Rockies.

From the ranch house through the hills it is 11 miles to the E. P. Ranch, the property of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Adjoining the T. S. on the eastern boundary is the famous Bar-T Ranch, the property of George Lane, one of the cattle kings of the Northwest, who also enjoys the distinction of being the largest owner of pure bred Friesian horses in the world.

Although the town of High River is 35 miles away, and the nearest railroad point on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, there is a good auto trail through the valley from the T. S. Ranch direct to Calgary, the metropolis of Alberta, 60 miles away; the trip can be made by auto in three hours.

The mail for the ranch is received at Longview P.O., Alberta, and although it is twenty miles from the ranch, the cowboys are always on hand to see that the "mail" is delivered promptly. Once a week during the summer months the boys on the ranch put on exhibitions of their sports for the amusement of the visitors. Tiding of bucking horses, roping, cowboy races and the various other daredevil stunts draw to the cowboy's heart are industry's heart.

Geologists will also find many opportunities for scientific research as the whole formation is an over-thrust from the Old Man River south of the Crow's Next Pass to Swift Current in the Glacier. Coal oil seapages are plentiful, new ones being discovered every once in a while.

Side trips along these routes can be made with husky pack dogs, to Virgin Valleys, which have never been explored by tourists. This is a form of sport, that has never before been introduced by guides and outfitters. Dog trains can be had for winter trips, but these trips are only suitable for people prepared to put in a certain amount of hardship and "real roughing it," as the tourist would have to do a good deal of snowshoeing.

One of the features of a visit to the T. S. Ranch is the fact that within a few hours after leaving the railroad, one finds oneself in the wilderness amongst the haunts of the big-born sheep and arizari bear, where the rainbow and Dolly Varden trout sport themselves in the clear pools of snow-fed mountain streams.

IT WAS EXACTLY WHAT HE NEEDED

Sleepless and Weak, He Could Hardly Stay on Job—Tanlac Again Proves Merit.

"Tanlac certainly proved to be the medicine I needed, and I am glad of the opportunity to recommend it," said James Payne, foreman of the paint gang of the Canadian National Railroad, for which road he has worked sixteen years, recently.

Before Christmas I had an attack of the "flu," which left me in a badly run-down, weakened condition. My appetite dwindled away until I could hardly eat a thing, and finally I stopped eating breakfast altogether. I am a sign painter by trade, and my nerves got in such bad shape my hands shook like a leaf, and it was impossible for me to do any small lettering. I could get but little sleep, often lying awake until one or four o'clock in the morning, and always got up feeling as tired as when I went to bed. I was troubled a great deal with dull, mean headaches, and finally became so weak and felt so tired and worn out all the time I could hardly stay on the job.

"As almost everyone I talked to spoke so highly of Tanlac, I decided to give it a trial, and now I praise it as much as anybody. It went right after my troubles at once, and I have a splendid appetite, am always anxious for breakfast, have gained several pounds in weight, and feel as good in every way as I ever remember feeling in my life. My nerves are as steady as a rock, and I can do the smallest kind of lettering better than I ever could. I can sleep like a child all night long, and always get up feeling simply fine. I never have a sign of a headache, and, in fact, just feel good and full of life all the time. Tanlac has helped me even more than I expected, and has certainly maintained my reputation in my case, and I will always take pleasure in recommending it."

Tanlac is sold in Red Deer by Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co., and by the leading druggist in every town.

UNITED STATES WILL INCREASE RATES

Washington, July 22.—To provide the additional revenue necessary to meet the $500,000,000 increase in wages awarded by the railroad labor board, the railroads of the United States proposed today to the interstate commerce commission, that passenger rates be advanced 20 per cent, and freight rates 9.13 per cent, in addition to the 2.75 per cent, previously requested. They also proposed that a surcharge of 50 per cent, be made on pullman fares, that express baggage rates be increased 20 per cent, and that milk tariffs be increased to the same level as freight rates.

Should the increases proposed today and those previously asked for be granted in full, existing freight rates will be advanced 34.5 per cent, and the country's freight bill would be increased by $1,355,370,675. The total which would be added to the passenger revenue under the railway executives plan would be $233,827,982 annually. Pullman charges would go up to $143,539,344 a year; the revenue on milk would be increased $5,662,689 and excess baggage charges would be advanced by $1,429,995. The plan presented by the railroad executives disclosed that they have estimated the wage award at approximately $250,000,000, instead of the $500,000,000 figured by the labor board.

Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the association of railway executives, explained that the $250,000,000 addition was figured on the basis of overtime allowance provided in the award.

OIL WILL SUPPLY WORLD FOR CENTURIES

Ottawa, July 22.—Proposals already on foot, it is said, for the reduction of tar sands, known to exist by billions of tons along the Athabasca river in Alberta. From the sands it is estimated that huge quantities of gasoline, kerosene, naphtha, batum, tar, lubricating and fuel oils can be secured. In 1913, Dr. Bosworth, of the imperial oil research laboratories, estimated that there would be sufficient oil obtained from the Athabasca tar sands to supply the entire world demand for hundreds of years. By an order-in-council gazetted last week, the lands containing these sands were withdrawn from sale, settlement or other disposal, thus leaving them free for development.

GREAT OUTCRY IN ENGLAND OVER NEW RAILWAY INCREASES

London.—The whole press is in ferment over the proposal to raise rail fares one hundred per cent, above pre-war rates on August 5th. Ministers in the house of commons last night did not commit themselves beyond a pledge that the increased fares would not constitute a force before that date, though Arthur Neale, under secretary, privately met newspapermen and told them it was a wrong inference that the increase would necessarily be enforced on that date. The railways, under government control, are costing the taxpayer a million pounds weekly, but the chief outcry against the increase is on behalf of holiday-makers, who will be penalized.

BRIDGE AND IRON WORKS BURNED AT MEDICINE HAT

Medicine Hat, July 22.—The Saskatchewan Bridge & Iron Works was totally destroyed by fire which broke out at 10.30 this evening. The loss is estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000. Owing to low water pressure the fire brigade were greatly handicapped in fighting the fire. The iron works have recently been engaged on a large government contract.

BRITISH SETTLERS COMING TO CANADA

Six Hundred Hand Picked Immigrants Forming the Vanguard.

Ottawa, Ont., July 22.—That Canada is looked upon as the land of promise by the people of the British Isles, and that we are on the eve of the greatest period of immigration from that quarter in our history, is the message which W. E. Scott and Russell Wilson have brought back with them after six months spent in the old country selecting immigrants under the plan of the Soldiers' Settlement Board. Mr. Scott was formerly deputy minister of agriculture in British Columbia, and Mr. Wilson has all his life been engaged in farming and pioneering in Saskatchewan. They were sent over to the old country last December to examine and select applicants to settle under the plan of the Soldiers' Settlement Board in different parts of Canada.

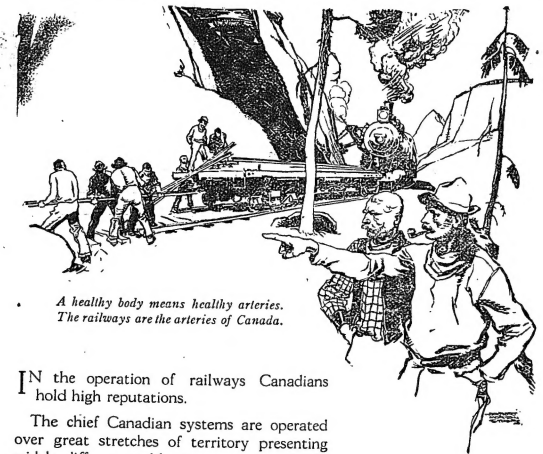

As an immediate result of their work six hundred hand-picked settlers, all well suited by experience, natural ability and means will be added to the farming population of Canada. They are the first of an influx which will be limited only by transportation facilities. The requirements insisted on in choosing these immigrants were that they should be men who had seen active service; that they should be thoroughly qualified for life in Canada, and that they should have capital of not less than one thousand dollars. The imperial government pays their ocean transportation.

The destination of the settlers has been left to themselves. The majority of them will be pretty evenly distributed between British Columbia, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, with a few for the Maritime Provinces.

In the case of some of those who seem specially well qualified, but had not the complete amount required, help has been given by the national fund raised by private subscription for assisting immigration.

In addition to those who are coming under the Soldiers' Settlement Board, a great many have been examined by Commissioners Wilson and Scott, and although they could not comply with one or more requirements, were still evidently of the type required. They were given every encouragement, and large numbers of them will come as soon as they can get transportation. The majority of the newcomers are English, Scotch and Welsh. Although the commissioners visited Ireland, they found conditions there so unsatisfactory that they could not accomplish much at present.

"You cannot impress it too strongly on the people of Canada," said the commissioners, "that there are thousands of the best type of settlers in the British Isles, anxious to come to Canada, and as soon as transportation facilities are adequate there will be a wave of immigration such as we have never before experienced. It is up to the people of Canada to lend the arrivals every encouragement and help, as those coming now are only the advance guard."

A healthy body means healthy arteries.
The railways are the arteries of Canada.

IN the operation of railways Canadians hold high reputations.

The chief Canadian systems are operated over great stretches of territory presenting widely different problems.

Their traffic obligations fluctuate rapidly with the seasons.

Climatic conditions are sometimes difficult. Unusual foresight, skill and determination are called for.

Yet the only unending highways for the heavy traffic across the New World from China to France during the war—were Canadian railways.

Canada alone among the allied countries had no war-time transportation crisis. When foreign roads choked under their load, she relieved them of millions of tons. At a time when ships were the need of the hour no ship lost time in any Canadian port through failure of the railways to deliver cargoes at the docks.

To-day the Canadian producer still commands the fastest, the most dependable and the cheapest railway service in the world.

But the foresight that made this record possible could do nothing without MONEY! The skill that kept terminals uncongested had to be backed with MONEY! The determination that drove crippled engines ahead in the face of 40-below gales and mounting snow would in the long run have been useless without MONEY!

Thus to-day the alarming fall in the net revenues of the railways is a menace to railway efficiency. It injures railway credit. It dissolves the reserves needful to meet the expanding needs of a growing country. It imperils national prosperity.

Increased freight rates are imperative therefore, not merely on behalf of railways but in the interests of Canada itself!

This is the first of a series of advertisements published under the authority of The Railway Association of Canada
formerly the CANADIAN RAILWAY WAR BOARD

In July 1918 the Canadian roads were threatened with a general strike. To prevent this public catastrophe they agreed to follow the American scale of wage increases. The Government of Canada meantime allowed freight rate increases intended to make up the cost of these new wage rates.

Leaving aside all question of increased cost of material, the new wages cost the railways of Canada an extra eighty million dollars for the first year alone.

The new rates yielded them an additional forty-three millions!

The annual deficit on wages alone was thirty-seven millions and is constantly growing!

At a meeting of the Hospital Board, on Monday last, the resignation of Miss Sarah Kingston, matron of the Hospital, was accepted with regret. Miss Kingston has been matron of the Hospital for many years, and her numerous friends will regret to hear of her resignation. One of the things discussed at the Hospital Board meeting was the fees, and the Board decided to increase the hospital fees by one dollar a day.

Quaker Brand Baked Beans Are Old-Fashioned

They're simply old-fashioned baked beans cooked as we remember them years ago when they went into the big pot at home.

We put in just enough pork and tomato sauce to give them zest.

You'll like this old-fashioned dish.
